

The Gender Agenda: Redefining Equality

'In no other country of the world has the notion of femicide been at the centre of such intense debate as in Italy. Bandelli provides a masterful synthesis of a wide spectrum of theories and a vivid depiction of how the public sphere works around contested concepts.'

– Consuelo Corradi, LUMSA University, Italy

'A non-orthodox approach to the gender framework of violence using Critical Discourse Studies... it could be provocative for many strict feminist activists.'

– Chaime Marcuello-Servós, University of Zaragoza, Spain

'Bandelli deconstructs the gender deconstructors, demonstrating how blaming all violence against women on male power demonizes men and doesn't serve the best interests of women.'

– Dale O'Leary, author of The Gender Agenda: Redefining Equality

'The significance of this critical challenge would be hard to over-state.'

– Janice Fiamengo, University of Ottawa, Canada

This book questions gendered readings of violence by analyzing how this paradigm has become normalized in Italy since the feminist term 'femminicidio' (or 'femicide'), entered the mainstream media during the 2013 general election. It also sheds light on discourses of contestation on the part of family activists, men's rights campaigners and divorced fathers' groups. The first is what the author terms an 'ideology narrative', for which discourses built around the conceptual category of 'gender' normalize simplistic representations of relationships between men and women. The second is a 'female violence discourse', which sheds light on under-represented aggressor-victim relations. The author argues that integrating these two counter-discourses into public debates helps to reappropriate the complexity of (violent) relations between the sexes, challenge dominant representations of femininity and masculinity and to address neglected social issues that contribute to violence. This thought-provoking book will appeal to students and scholars of sociology, critical discourse studies and gender.

Daniela Bandelli is an independent researcher based in Italy. Her research focuses on critical discourse studies, particularly the role of social movements in challenging and consolidating dominant representations of gender and family issues.
