Bibliography on HIV/AIDS in Ethiopia and Ethiopians in the Diaspora: The 2006 Update

Mesfin Samuel Malatu¹, Helmut Kloos², Paul J. Converse³, and Damen Haile Mariam⁴

Introduction

This is the fourth update of the bibliography on HIV/AIDS in Ethiopia and Ethiopians in the Diaspora, which was originally published in this journal in 2003. That bibliography covered published and unpublished work on HIV/AIDS and related health conditions (e.g., other sexually transmitted infections, tuberculosis) for the period 1972 to 2002. Three subsequent updates were published in 2004, 2005 and 2006 respectively. The present update extends the bibliography to cover references not listed in previous updates and those recent publications or presentations that appeared in 2006.

As in the previous bibliographies, this update includes references to biomedical, epidemiological, clinical, psychosocial, socio-economic, cultural, behavioral, impact, intervention, and evaluation studies on HIV/AIDS and relevant research on sexually transmitted infections (STIs), tuberculosis, and other co-infections in Ethiopia and among Ethiopians in the Diaspora. Also included are studies dealing with sexual and contraceptive behaviors, and socio-cultural practices or conditions that increase the vulnerability of Ethiopians to HIV and associated opportunistic infections, including research on conditions of street and orphan children, sexual harassment and violence on women, and traditional practices (e.g., early marriage, female genital cutting) and their consequences.

The same strategies were used as in those previous bibliographies to identify and catalog the references. First, all new references that appeared in 2006 were searched in major databases, including MEDLINE, PsycLit, Sociological Abstracts, and POPLINE using the key words "Ethiopia and HIV," "Ethiopia and AIDS," "Ethiopia and reproductive health," and "Ethiopia and sexual behavior." As in the previous updates, we also searched using "Ethiopia and Israel" to capture research on Ethiopian immigrants in Israel. Second, journals that were not indexed by these database systems (e.g., Ethiopian Journal of Health Development, Horn of Africa Journal of AIDS) were manually inspected for relevant references. Third, we searched for relevant presentations at the websites of major HIV/AIDS and public health conferences, including the XVIth International Conference on AIDS (http://www.aids2006.org), the 33rd Annual International Conference on Global Health (http://www.globalhealth.org/conference_2006), and the 14th International Symposium on HIV and Emerging Infectious Diseases (http://www.isheid.com/prog2006.htm). Additional online searches were also made on website of major national or regional HIV/AIDS resource centers (e.g., http://www.ethnrc.org) and international organizations (e.g., http://www.unaids.org) for reports on HIV/AIDS in Ethiopia or Ethiopians in the Diaspora. Once all the 2006 references were selected and cataloged, similar searches for older references (particularly those published late in 2005) were made. Relevant references that were not listed in the previous bibliographies were retained and included in the present update.

This update includes 395 citations. Of these, 346 (87.6%) appeared in 2006; 84 (21.3%) are journal articles, 193 (48.9%) conference abstracts, 98(24.8%) masters theses or doctoral dissertations, 15 (3.8%) reports, and 5 (1.3%) book chapters. We have also updated our list of websites and included links to 12 websites with useful information and downloadable documents on HIV/AIDS in Ethiopia and Ethiopians in the Diaspora.

This year's update represents a significant increase in the number of references from the previous ones because of increases in conference presentations and graduate theses. There is a large increase in conference presentations from the last update, both proportionally to the total citations (from 7.2% to 48.9%) and in absolute numbers (from 11 to 193). This change can be explained by our success in obtaining a more complete list of HIV/AIDS related presentations at major national (i.e., Ethiopian Public Health Association) and international conferences (i.e., International AIDS Conferences, International Conference on Global Health). For instance, this update lists conference abstracts that could not be listed in the past update (e.g., 2005 abstracts of the Ethiopian Public Health Association). The timing of some conferences (e.g., bi-annual occurrence of the International AIDS Conference) also contributed to the increase in the number of references in the current update. It is important to note, however, that there is also a trend towards increased presentations on HIV/AIDS issues on Ethiopia or among Ethiopians at international conferences. Figure 1A presents the number of abstracts containing "Ethiopia" presented in all of the 16 International AIDS Conferences. The figure shows a significant increase in number of abstracts during the last two meetings. In contrast, the number of published articles relating to HIV or AIDS and Ethiopia and archived in PubMed did not increase from 2005 to 2006 (see Figure 1B), even though citations concerning TB, but not schistosomiasis or malaria, did increase markedly from 2005 to 2006 (see Figure 2).
